The Fund will invest in companies that generate the dominant part of their earnings from the ownership of infrastructure assets and the Fund's portfolio of 20 to 40 investments is designed to provide sufficient diversification so that investors are not overly correlated to any single company, industry segment-specific or macroeconomic risk. The Fund is actively managed, meaning that investment decisions are made on a fully discretionary basis. The performance of the Fund is measured against the S&P Global Infrastructure Net Total Return Index. Therefore, the Fund can be said to be managed by reference to the S&P Global Infrastructure Net Total Return Index, but as a performance reference benchmark only. The S&P Global Infrastructure Net Total Return Index is a market capitalisation weighted index that is designed to track 75 companies from around the world diversified across three infrastructure sectors energy, transportation and utilities. Index results assume the reinvestment of all distributions of capital gain and net investment income using a tax rate applicable to non-resident institutional investors who do not benefit from double taxation treaties. Further information regarding any benchmark referred to herein can be found at www.mfgam.com.au/funds/benchmark-information.
